WILMINGTON JOURNAL.

Friday Morning, October 5, 1849.

departure on Sunday last for the North, and ton, concerning the British claim (?) to the stocked the fortress with full supplies to last cratic candidate for Governor. will necessarily be absent from his post for a Mosquito coast. The report has, however, out the winter. The fortress of Comorn was week or two, during which time we must crave the indulgence of our readers.

THE FACT ESTABLISHED .- It has for a long time past been a question at issue between the democrats, and Taylor wing of the federal party, what were the real views entertained by General Taylor in regard to the Wilmot Proviso. The democratic press throughout the country did, previous to the election which resulted in elevating General Taylor to the chief magistracy of this Republic, charge him with being partial to that measure, and called loudly upon both him and those who advocated his election, to make a clear statement of the policy which he would pursue (if successful) in the disposal of any bill that might come up for action, with the Proviso incorporated in, or attached to it. The only answer which they received was, that Gen'l Taylor was a large slaveholder, and would consequently, carry out no policy which would conflict, to a ruinous extent, with his own private interests. Since the calm which has succeeded the terrible election storm of 1848, the democratic party have awaited in silent suspense for some move or declaration on the part of the President that would tend to set aside doubts as to his true position in regard to the extension of slavery. But they have waited in vain; and, doubtless, the country would have remained in ignorance of his views on that subject until the sitting of Congress, had not the Editor of the Washington Union hit upon an expedient to extort from the " Republic"—the organ of the Presidenta declaration which, though not satisfactory, vet, in our opinion, does not leave "a single hinge upon which to hang a doubt." The Union puts these interrogatories to the Republic: " Is Gen. Taylor in favor of the free-soil doctrines? Is he in favor of further extension of slavery? Is he in favor of the Wilmot Proviso? Will he sign a bill containing the Wil- ing been chartered by the Government to conmot Proviso, if such a bill is passed by Congress?' The Union demanded distinct and Florida, returned on last Saturday night, havcategorical answers to these questions, and ing performed the trip in about five days. We receives for an answer-mum. Now, there are gratified to learn that the officers and men is an old maxim which, we think, is very ap- were much pleased with the performance of plicable to the case in question, and that is, the boat; of course, they could not be otherwhen a question is put, which merely claims wise than pleased with the gentlemanly comfor its answer, yes or no, and instead, gets the mander, who is well known for his proverbial evasive, - mum, - the inference must be hospitality and kindness to passengers. thrown in the affirmative scale; and thus, we consider the fact established, that Gen. Taylor is morally in favor of the Wilmot Proviso; and if it stands in need of the preponderating influence of the Executive, to secure its passage through Congress, why, he will not transport Company E, 2nd Regiment of Artilscruple to do any thing in his power towards its advancement.

The Union administers a castigation to the Republic, and the President, for the silence which is observed by them to the above inter rogations, in the following strain:

"It is true, the organ talks about the impropriety of the Executive letting his views known in advance of the action of Congress. According to the organ, the President s bound to be as dumb as an oyster, and to mestic policy of the country. Well, this course of proceeding may be very expedient, and very necessary, under the present regime, because it may be very necessary to avoid any exposure of the nominal head of the ad-

We look upon this (the Proviso) question as of the utmost importance to the Union; with a President without any fixed principles, who has thrown himself into the hands of most reckless counsellors, and an out and out abolitionist for Vice President, what can the South expect? We warned our opponents, as with the powers of vaticination, of the dangers which must accrue to the South. in the agitation of the Proviso question, with such men as Taylor and Fillmore at the helm of State; and we yet hope,-for hope is all that now remains—that our predilections may prove ill-founded :- but we repeat, that there is not left "a hinge, upon which we can hang a doubt," as to the course General Taylor will pursue when the crisis for action arrives.

GUANO. - We see that this article is attracting considerable attention in the States, as a most valuable manure. We publish to-day, under our agricultural head, a short account of the quantity imported this season into one county in Maryland. From an advertisement in the Journal, it will be seen that the article can be obtained at the store of Messrs. Howard & Peden, on Water Street.

ACCIDENT.-We learn that on Thursday night last, a colored man named Wm. Evans, who had been for a length of time employed by the Wilmington & Raleigh Raif Road Company as fireman, fell from the locomotive E. B. Dudley, about three miles this side of Hali fax, was run over, and so badly wounded that he died on Friday. It is said he was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

COMMISSIONER TO SPAIN.-The President. it is stated, has appointed S. that may suit their fancy or convenience."

We copy the above extract merely for the purpose of calling the attention of those interested in the welfare of the Wilmington and Raleigh Road, to the importance of a speedy completion of the Manchester Road, in order that we may secure for ourselves a vast amount of trade and travel that we must necessarily lose, unless that part of the Road, lying in this State, shall be completed as soon as the South Carolina end. > Counterfeit.-A counterfeit half eagle has been shown to the editor of the Philadel phia Bulletin. It was taken at one of the banks of that city, where it escaped detection, and was paid out. Subsequently it was received at the Custom House, and was only detected by its trial upon the delicate scales in use there.

It is rumored in the papers that the case of Bishop Onderdonk, who has been under suspension from preaching since 1845, will be brought to a close at the present session, and that the Bishop will be reinstated. Hemp Growers .- A Convention of Kentucky hemp growers was held at Lexington ast week, to deliberate on matters of common interest. The Convention was composed of some of the most respectable farmers in Favette and the adjoining counties. They are aggrieved that the Government should have re turned, under the late administration, to the previous practice of advertising for hemp contracts, instead of appointing agents to make purchases, who would deal directly with the armers. They say that under the latter system, the supply of water-rotted hemp was raa return of it—alledging that without it, the market will be supplied chiefly with the dewrotted article, which the Government does not want .- Baltimore Patriot. According to our notion about such things, the government is perfectly right in advertising for contracts. Suppose the Government were to send agents over the country to buy pork, timber, and every other article required for the army and navy, is it not more than his character belongs to history probable exorbitant prices would be demanded, and the Government compelled to pay them, because the door to competition would hope Congress will not alter the law.

Flogging in the Navy .- A large meeting was held in Camden, N. J., on Wednesday night, on this subject, which was attended by several distinguished gentlemen of the State. Resolutions were adopted condemning the use of the lash as a means of enforcing discipline in the U. S. Navy, and disapproving of the use of ardent spirits as a daily ration for persons employed in vessels belonging to the United States.

It is high time the inhuman mode of punshment, by flogging our brave tars on the bare back, should be abolished. The practice is disgraceful to this enlightened and humane nation.

We supose the Republic would have a law compelling the western farmer to give twice as many barrels of flour for a ton of called in question, they have only to find that fransylvania iron, as he would have to give Jackson did something like it, and they are for the same article from abroad? Such is satisfied. They will swear after a while that the "protective policy"—which robs Peter to pay Paul.—New Haven Register.

Free Soil Coalition .- What are the Opinions of Gen. Taylor?-The Republic is now the acknowledged and confessed organ of Gen. Taylor and the cabinet. It is the favorite organ of the cabinet. It has secured all the spoils" which the cabinet and the President have the power to bestow upon it, to the exclusion of the National Intelligencer, which is the organ of the whig party. The senior editor of the Republic is known to have the personal friendship and confidence of General Taylor. Rumor, or rather public opinion now, says he wrote one or both of the old General's Allison letters, and also his Pascagoula speech, which he made such bad work in delivering. The Republic cannot, therefore, with any propriety or reason, say that it is not cognizant of Gen. Taylor's political views and opinions. Now, inasmuch as the Republic is very loud in its clamor against the democratic party in New York for settling their dissentions and again uniting in battle against the whigs, and two-fifths, or $2,105,433, of domestic of 1 to 1 cent per lb. Whiskey, 28 a 29 cts. and also very loud in denouncing the democracy for forming a coalition, as it alleges, with the free-soilers, we have a right to ask it to inform the public in relation to the sentiments of Gen. Taylor on the subject of free-soil and

We therefore put the question direct to the Republic—Is Gen. Taylor in favor of the free-soil doctrines? Is he in favor of further extension of slavery? Is he in favor of the Wilmot Proviso? Will he sign a bill containing the Wilmot Proviso, if such a bill is passed by Congress? We desire distinct and categorical answers to these questions; and the Republic has no right now to evade them. If it does, we shall call upon the people of the South to infer, from its silence, that Gen'l Taylor is in favor of the Wilmot Proviso, and will sign a bill containing it—in short, that he is a free soiler. If it will not answer our interrogatories, let it not say another word about a coalition between the democracy and the free-soilers. Its hypocrisy will then be too palpable to deceive anybody.

We would call the attention of our friends in Maryland, Georgia, Mississippi, and Louisiana, to the response which the organ of Gen. Taylor may give to our inquiries. It is very flippant in charging upon the democracy a coalition with free-soilism, but it dare not say that Gen Taylor will not approve and sign a bill containing the Wilmot Proviso. And from its silence the people of the South will know what inference to draw. All its noise and clamor against the democracy and the democratic press is only intended to blind and hoodwink the South, and keep that portion of the Union attached to the administration until the memory of her spotless ianocence. DEBILITY A. 4. Is this preparation are strongly cellcentrated all the Medicinal properties of Sarsaparilla, combined with the most effectual aids, the most salutary productions, the most potent simples of the vegetable kingdom; and it has been so fully tested, not only by patients themselves, but also by Physicians, that it has received their unqualified recommendations and the approbation of the public; and has established on its own merits a reputation for value and expreacy far superior to the various compounds bearing the name of Sarsaparilla. Diseases have been cured, such as are not furnished in the records of time past; and what it has already done for the thousands who have used it, it is capable of doing for the millions still suffering and struggling with disease. It purfies, cleanses, and strengthens the fountain springs of life, and infuses new vigor throughout the whole animal frame.

The diseases for which this article is recommended are those to which it is known from personal experience to be adapted; and those apparently removed beyond the sphere of its action have yielded to its influence. The catalogue of complaints might be greatly extended to which the Sarsaparilla is adapted, but experience proves its value, and each succeeding day is adding new trophies to its fame.

Messrs, Saxis:—Having suffered many years with a disease of my throat, affecting the larynx, during which time I was treated by the most distinguished physicians in Europe and the United States, without receiving any permanent benefit, but all the time my general health and strength declining, and the disease making fearful progress: caustic applications were used, and whatever else was thought most efficient for producing a cure; but I am ronfident the deplorable situation I was in, the larying the being accompanied with phthiss and great difficulty in breathing, would soon have terminated my life, had I not obtained relief through the melium of your valuable Sarsaparilla. I must say, gentlemen, when I commenced using the Sarsaparilla I did not place much confidence in its virtues; and this will not stirprise you, whell you are informed I had tried more than fifty different remedies during the past four years, without any success; but after taking your Sarsaparilla a few weeks, I was obliged at last to yield to evidence. This marrellous specific has not only relieved, but cured me; and I therefore think it my duty, gentlemen, fon the benefit of suffering humanity, to give you this attestation of my cure.

CANCEROUS ULCER PERMANENTLY CURED.

LET THE FACTS SPEAR FOR THEMBELVES.—The following striking, and, as will be seen, permanent cure of an inveterate Cancer, is only another link in the great chain of testimony to its merits. Let the afflicted read and be convinced. What it has done once it will do again.—

Stemford, Cl., Oct. 5, 1847.*

Messrs, A. B. & D. Sands:—Gentlemen—In the year 1842 I was attacked with a cancer in my neck, which soon extended its ravages over the side of my face, eating the fiesh, and leaving the cords of my neck bare, discharging very freely, cansing in tense pain and suffering, depriving me of rest at right and eithfort by any destroying my appetite, and reducing me almost to the gates of death. I was attended by the first physicians in the state, who prescribed for me, and did all that skill did titerat could effect, but during all the time I continued to grow worse under their care. In the Spring of 1841 chanced to hear of the cures performed by your Sarsaparilia, and determined to try it. I had not used over two bottles before I felt its effects on my system most sensibly. My appetite was soon restored, my strength was increasing, the discharge from the cancer decreased, and I soon began to perceive that the field was healing. I continued its use according to directions, and also continued to grow better and better from day to day, until I have been fully and wholly cured by its nec. It is now two years since I was citred, and I have remained perfectly well up to this day. I have delayed giving you this certificate, that I might ascertain whether the disease would reappear; but I am happy and most thankful to again repeat that the cure is a perfect one, and effected wholly by the use of your Sarsaparilla. The sears till remain; and all who know me, and many of the citizens of Staniford, can testify to the severity of my case and my sufferings, and the health restoring power of your Sarsaparilla. Motto on the Bridal Ring -A young gentleman of fine intellect and noble heart, was suddently snatched by the hand of death from all the endearments of life. Surrounded by everything that could make existence pleasant and happy—a wife that idolized him children that loved him as they only can love, and friends devoted to him; the summons came, and he lay upon the bed of death. But a few short years ago, she to whom he was wedded, placed a bridal ring upon his finger, upon the inside of which he had a few words privately engraved. The husband would never permit the giver to read them, telling her the day would come when her wish should be gratified, and she should know the secret. Seven years glided away, and a day or two since, when conscious that he must soon leave his wife forever, he called her to his bedside, and with dying accents told her that the hour had at last come, when she should see the words upon the ring she had given him. The young mother took it from his cold finger, and through heart-stricken with grief, eagerly read the words "I have loved thee on earth-I will meet thee in Heaven."

Pretty Good -- "What shall I help you to?" inquired the daughter of a landlady, of a modest youth, at the dinner table. "A wife," and never infested with rust. was the meek reply. The young lady blushed, perhaps indignantly, and it is said that the offices of a neighboring clergyman were requisite to reconcile the parties.

THE ARCHITECT.

BY HENRY W. LONGFELLOW. All are Architects of Fate. Working in the walls of Time; Some with massive deeds and great, Some with ornaments of rhyme.

Nothing useless is or low-Each thing in its place is best; And what seems but idle show, Strengthens and supports the rest.

For the structure that we raise, Time is with material filled; Our to-days and yesterdays Are the blocks with which we build.

Truly shape and fashion these-Leave no yawning gaps between; Think not, because no man sees, Such things will remain unseen.

Builders wrought with greatest care, Each minute and unseen part; For the gods see everywhere. Let us do our work as well,

In the older days of Art,

Make the house where gods may dwell, Beautiful, entire and clean. Else our lives are incomplete, Standing in these walls of Time,

Both the unseen and the seen;

Broken stair-ways, where the feet Stumble as they seem to climb Build to-day, then, strong and sure, With a firm and ample base;

And ascending all secure,

Thus alone can we attain To those turrets, where the eye Sees the world as one vast plain And one boundless reach of sky.

AGRICULTURAL.

Charms of Rural Life .- Besides the benefit of mental discipline derived Irom the study of nature, of which agriculture opens as wide a field as any other pursuit, the charms of rural life are unalloyed by the recollections of illgotten gains, and uncontaminated by immoral influences. The farmer has no occasion to review with remorse a life of injustice to his fellow men, or mourn the loss of fortunes ac cummulated by an occupation almost necessa rily dishonest. The lawyer looks upon his briefs prepared for unjust causes; the physician upon the emaciated forms of his patients and the speculator upon the wealth amassed from the ruined fortunes soi others, with the humiliating consciousness that they have not in all instances returned an equivalent for what they have received. But the cultivator of the soil may pursue his calling with the cheering reflection that an all bounteous Providence has rewarded his efforts, and through him bestowed more of happiness upon his fel low men.

Salt a Preventive of Rust .- Sir John Sinclair, one of the best agricultural writers that England has ever produced, has the following remarks upon the subject: "In the course of a most extensive inquiry into the causes of the rust or blight in wheat, and the means of its prevention, it appears that Mr. Sickler, a farmer in Cornwall, was accustomed to manure his turnip land with the refuse salt from the Pilchard fishery; and that any ground thus treated, was never liable to rust or blight, though it infested all the neighborhood.

"This important circumstance is confirmed in a recent communication to the author, from the Rev. Robert Hoblyn. He used one ton of old salt, with one ton of fresh fish, mixed with earth, and from 20 to 30 tons of sea sand, and his crops, he states, were always good,

"It is probable that the salt is the only article in this compost that could be of material service in preventing the rust, by its checking putrefaction, the result of too frequent a repetition of corrupted manures. It is well known that the rust does not attack plants in a state of perfect health. Its general cause is, the overfulness or over luxuriance of the plant, from its being glutted with rank and unwholesome food.'

Dominie put it in his pocket, and preached | Suarce has been enlightening the London Sohis sermon in a most capital style; and on ciety of Arts upon a South American tubercle, coming down, handed the identical dollar to the culture of which he has undertaken on a small scale. He says it possesses a larger de-"Why," exclaimed the lender, "you have gree of nutriment than most of the farinaceous plants which form the basis of human food in "It has been of great service to me, never- the English climate. Reclaiming Clay Lands .- An English agtain sceneries of Pennsylvania, it is said that ricultural writer says that the present fillage one of Gen. Taylor's admirers asked him if he system, as practised by scientific men in Enghad ever seen the Natural Bridge of Virginia.

The "second Washington" replied, in the "honest simplicity" of his prototype, that he had not travelled through Virginia for many the conversion of stiff stubborn clays into a frighte mould, through the means of thorough to contour the means of thorough the means of the years, and the bridge was not built the last friable mould, through the means of thorough day, and Saturday. Warranted good, or draining, double trenching, or sub-soiling, is returned. Why is a blade of grass like a note of the great importance of it, the enormous benegreat change it has effected on the face of the country, and the complete revolution it has made in the whole farming practice, we cannot be too thankful to Mr. Smith, of Deanston, the author of it."

Tea in South Carolina -A correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from Greenville, South Carolina, says:

"The very first person I met in this place was the somewhat celebrated Junius Smith, the originator of Atlantic steam navigation. He is now seventy years old, and as active as He is now seventy years old, and as active as a boy. He has bought a plantation here, and has planted it with tea. Silica, from a Greek word signifying pebble, is the characteristic ingredient of a variety of siliceous minerals, among which rock crystal, quartz, chalcedony, and flint, may be deemed nearly pure silica. Rock crystal heated red hot and then quenched with water, becomes friable and opaque. Reduce this to powder, and we have one form of the pure silica. In this state it is insoluble in water. But when melted with three parts of carbonate of potash, it forms a glass, which is soluble in water. From this solution (formerly called liquor of flints.) the concentrated acids throw down the silica in the form of a gelatinous hydrate. Silica presents another very remarkable character, which is, that if we reverse the above proportions, and fuse together a mixture of one part of carbonate of potash and three

" Sillica has been dissolved by heat and steam, and thus carried up as a vapor, and then fallen like hoar frost. Plants, besides this power of using crystal to cover their stems, ruits, nuts, petals, (as in the flower " Eternal,") also use the metals to color their flowers. We imitate the flowers in our stained glass, as seen in our churches. Violets have been subjected to chemical analysis, and found metals, and the power of vegetables to elabo- propose to establish in WILMINGTON, rate their colors from metals, is wonderfully striking."

Raising of Calves .- The best method of aising calves, we think, is to do so by hand. If taken from the cow as soon as dropped, there will be no difficulty in teaching it to eat. Loblolly, made of half a pint of corn meal and a pint of new milk, given to it about three times a day, will be sufficient to keep it. It is the easiest thing imaginable to teach the calf to suck up its food; by simply pressing its head into the pan containing the mixture, with one hand, and inserting the fore-finger of the other into its mouth, it will instinctively suck up its beverage. If it is desirable to husband your milk, you may begin to decrease the quantity which you add to your lob!olly, when the calf is about three weeks old, putting in less milk each day, until the calf impercepti-bly forgets its taste altogether. When the calf is six weeks old you may turn it out in a grass lot: but if you desire to push its growth. continue its loblolly twice a day; by doing so you will increase its size fully one-third.

Use of Guano .- The Rockville (Md.) Journal says :- Several hundred tons of Peruvian guano have already been brought into this county for present use. The statement we made some time since, of from four to five hundred tons, will fall short of the quantity that will be used : besides this, other fertili zers have been liberally ordered. This increase every year, in the use of guano and other improving substances in this county, shows that healthy state of feeling exists here upon the subject of improvement. In a few years more, we have not a doubt that Montgomery will be classed among the most fertile and productive counties of the State.

Cotton - The Huntsville (Texas) Banner "It is now reduced to a certainty that the cotton crop of this State is to be taken by the worms. They have probably appeared in every section of the country by this time. All the crops upon the Trinity below this, were destroyed last week : so were also the crops on Lake Creek, and in the neighborhood of Montgomery. The worms dld not make their appearance in this county until a few days ago. They have by this time finished the work of destruction here."

An editor off toward sunset has fallen into the hands of the Philistines, and breaks forth in the following heart Coving appeal :- Perley's Pic Nic.

mend the owner to get rid of him immediately." " Bob, is that dog a hunter?" No, he is half hunter and half setter; he hunts bones when he's hungry, and sits by the stove when he is satisfied."

Pride of ancestry .- The " proud Duke" of Lition. Somerset, as he was called, used to say that he pitied Adam, because he had no ancestors.

Antiquity.- A lawyer and a doctor were liscussing the antiquity of their respective professions, and each cited authority to prove his the most ancient. "Mine," said the disciple of Lycurgus, "commenced almost with the world's era: Cain slew his brother Abel, and that was a criminal case in common
